790:534:90: INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS
AND THE UNITED NATIONS SYSTEM
RUTGERS UNIVERSITY
FALL 2018
ONLINE

INSTRUCTOR

PROFESSOR ENGY ABDELKADER, JD, LL.M.

Rutgers University MA Program in Political Science

Concentration in United Nations and Global Policy Studies

Email: Engy.Abelkader@rutgers.edu

Office Hours: By appointment

COURSE DELIVERY

This course is fully online. To access the course, please visit sakai.rutgers.edu . For more information about course access or support, contact the Sakai Help Desk via email at sakai@rutgers.edu or call 848-445-8721.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course will introduce participants to the realm of international human rights, with a particular focus on the United Nations system. In addition to surveying the history and foundation of human rights, we will explore myriad substantive areas including civil and political rights, economic and social rights, elimination of racial discrimination, gender rights and freedom of religion or belief. We will consider legal, political and other mechanisms used to protect human rights as well as contemporary discourses in the field. Course materials will encompass international declarations, agreements and instruments as well as materials from political scientists, legal academia, NGOs and news media. No prior familiarity with the subject matter is necessary.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

By the end of this course, students should be able to:

- Understand the historical, theoretical and practical foundations of the international human rights system vis-à-vis the United Nations.
- Define and differentiate between myriad substantive areas of international human rights including civil and political rights, economic, social and cultural rights and women's and children's rights.
- Discuss legal, political and other mechanisms employed to protect human rights.

- Research and analyze contemporary developments related to international human rights and the United Nations system.

 - Computer: current Mac (OS X) or PC (Windows 7 or newer) with high-speed internet connection
- REQUIRED SOFTWARE
 - Microsoft Word

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND GRADES

Class Attendance & Participation (25% of grade)

Class attendance and participation is mandatory and you are expected to log-on at least twice per week to learn material, and post to the Discussion Forums (one original post, plus two replies). To be successful in this course, one should be prepared to devote at least 10 hours per week. In the event of a significant scheduling conflict or illness, please email the instructor as soon as you are aware that you will be unlikely to attend class. Unexplained absences will otherwise be looked upon unfavorably.

Response Papers (30% of grade)

Students will be required to write five brief response papers throughout the semester. The response papers, representing an informal analysis of one to two double-spaced pages, should raise questions or address issues about the readings (not just summarize them). They are intended to help students critically engage with the readings. They should be submitted via Sakai.

Writing Requirement (45% of grade)

Students are expected to produce a research paper analyzing a topic related to the subject matter. Class participants must have their paper topic approved by the instructor. Research papers should be 20 double-spaced pages in length (excluding the title page and citations), and are due on the last day of class.

Topics for the paper include:

- Origin of Human Rights

- Civil and Political Rights
- Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights
- International Women’s Rights
- Cultural Universalism and Cultural Relativism
- The United Nations Human Rights System
- Genocide and Humanitarian Intervention
- The Responsibility to Protect
- Remedies for Massive Human Rights Violations
- If you would like to propose an alternative topic not reflected above, please submit it for approval by the end of the second week of class.

COURSE RUBRIC

With respect to evaluation, the following rubric will be used in assessing your performance, including forum posts, response papers and research paper. It sets the most basic criteria of assessment, but it will at least provide you with some idea of my expectations.

	A 4 pts	B 3 pts	C 2 pts	D/F 1/0 pts
Argument and analysis	Makes clear and compelling argument. Solid reasoning. Offers insightful analysis.	Makes clear argument, based on plausible readings. Some effort to sustain argument throughout the analysis.	Attempts to offer a cogent argument and analysis, but argument and analysis are based on faulty reasoning.	Fails to make a cogent argument or to offer sound analysis.
Writing and grammar	Writes well, making appropriate word choices and avoiding grammar and spelling mistakes.	Writes well, but may include a handful of grammar, spelling, or word choice mistakes.	Makes multiple errors, but still writes in a clearly intelligible manner.	Makes multiple errors that interfere substantially with comprehension.

Organization and structure	Presents clear, navigable structure with introduction, body, and conclusion. Provides reader with a "road map" of essay.	Offers clear organization with some road map for reader.	Makes some effort to structure the paper, but organization is problematic or difficult to follow.	Structures the paper in a way that is disorganized and difficult or impossible to follow.
Mastery and use of readings: References	Uses multiple readings and demonstrates mastery of facts and arguments made in readings.	References multiple readings and demonstrates a good degree of understanding.	Makes minimal use of readings and/or fails to demonstrate adequate mastery of readings.	Fails to use readings.
Mastery and use of readings: Concepts	Knows the analytical concepts, provides their definition(s), and applies them precisely and systemically in the analysis of specific problems.	Knows most of the concepts. Makes minor definitional errors.	Makes some headway toward knowing and applying the relevant concepts.	Fails to know and apply basic concepts.
Mastery and use of readings: Evidence	Marshals appropriate evidence to describe, understand, and explain political	Marshals appropriate evidence to describe, understand, and explain political problems,	Attempts to provide and explain evidence but with substantial omissions or errors in	Fails to provide relevant evidence.

	problems.	with small errors.	interpretation .
Mastery and use of readings: Theoretical Analyses	Explains the relevance and applicability of a wide range of theoretical analyses to specific political problems.	Is able to apply successfully some of the course's theoretical analyses to selected political problems.	Has difficulty connecting theoretical analyses to the political problems.	Fails to connect the course's theoretical analyses to analyzed political problems.
Mastery and use of readings: Application to real political problems	Exhibits a nuanced understanding of the relationship between the analytical tools learned in class and "real life" global/comparative political problems.	Demonstrates a general understanding of the relevance of political scientific theories for the analysis of the global political world.	Has difficulty connecting the theories to actual issues of global/comparative politics.	Fails to connect the theories to actual issues of global/comparative politics.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY POLICY

Principles of academic integrity require that every Rutgers University student:

- properly acknowledge and cite all use of the ideas, results, or words of others
- properly acknowledge all contributors to a given piece of work
- make sure that all work submitted as his or her own in a course or other academic activity is produced without the aid of unsanctioned materials or unsanctioned collaboration
- obtain all data or results by ethical means and report them accurately without suppressing any results inconsistent with his or her interpretation or conclusions
- treat all other students in an ethical manner, respecting their integrity and right to pursue their educational goals without interference. This requires that a student neither facilitate academic dishonesty by others nor obstruct their academic progress
- uphold the canons of the ethical or professional code of the profession for which he or she is preparing.

Adherence to these principles is necessary in order to insure that:

- everyone is given proper credit for his or her ideas, words, results, and other scholarly accomplishments
- all student work is fairly evaluated and no student has an inappropriate advantage over others
- the academic and ethical development of all students is fostered
- the reputation of the University for integrity in its teaching, research, and scholarship is maintained and enhanced.

Failure to uphold these principles of academic integrity threatens both the reputation of the University and the value of the degrees awarded to its students. Every member of the University community therefore bears a responsibility for ensuring that the highest standards of academic integrity are upheld.

– The Rutgers University Academic Integrity Policy

CHEATING AND PLAGIARISM

Short version: Don't cheat. Don't plagiarize.

Longer version: Cheating on tests or plagiarizing materials in your papers deprives you of the educational benefits of preparing these materials appropriately. It is personally dishonest to cheat on a test or to hand in a paper based on unacknowledged words or ideas that someone else originated. It is also unfair, since it gives you an undeserved advantage over your fellow students who are graded on the basis of their own work. In this class we will take cheating very seriously. All suspected cases of cheating and plagiarism will be automatically referred to the Office of Judicial Affairs, and we will recommend penalties appropriate to the gravity of the infraction. The university's policy on Academic Integrity is available above and at http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/files/documents/AI_Policy_9_01_2011.pdf¹ I strongly advise you to familiarize yourself with this document, both for this class and for your other classes and future work. To help protect you, and future students, from plagiarism, we require all papers to be submitted through Turnitin.com.

Since what counts as plagiarism is not always clear, I quote the definition given in Rutgers' policy:

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is the use of another person's words, ideas, or results without giving that person appropriate credit. To avoid plagiarism, every direct quotation must be identified by quotation marks or appropriate indentation and both direct quotation and paraphrasing must be cited properly according to the accepted format for the particular discipline or as required by the instructor in a course. Some common examples of plagiarism are:

- Copying word for word (i.e. quoting directly) from an oral, printed, or electronic source without proper attribution.
- Paraphrasing without proper attribution, i.e., presenting in one's own words another person's written words or ideas as if they were one's own.
- Submitting a purchased or downloaded term paper or other materials to satisfy a course requirement.

- Incorporating into one's work graphs, drawings, photographs, diagrams, tables, spreadsheets, computer programs, or other nontextual material from other sources without proper attribution.²

A SPECIAL NOTE: Students often assume that because information is available on the Web it is public information, does not need to be formally referenced, and can be used without attribution. This is a mistake. All information and ideas that you derive from other sources, whether written, spoken, or electronic, must be attributed to their original source. Such sources include not just written or electronic materials, but people with whom you may discuss your ideas, such as your roommate, friends, or family members. They deserve credit for their contributions too!

Judgments about plagiarism can be subtle. If you have any questions, please feel free to ask for guidance.
